

Lower values indicate better performance in every panel.